A Special Thanks

I often say that one of the best indicators of a church's vitality is its children's and music ministries. By that measure, CCPC is thriving! I am continually amazed at the talent and commitment of the children in Covenant and Cherub Choir and it is my joy to share that with you. As a congregation, you function as the "great cloud of witnesses" that surrounds these children and your support as they proclaim the Word of God through music and theatre encourages them to carry that message out into the world. Thank you for attending today and please join me in offering the children's choirs a hearty congratulations on a wonderful year of music making! We are sad that today marks Jordan DeRouen's final day at CCPC, but what an exciting note on which to end! Additionally, "In the Image" is my third and final musical at CCPC before I also move in June. So today is a very special, yet bittersweet day. I hope to see you all in the Atrium after today's service for cake, autographs from the cast, and Jordan's farewell.
